

http://www.stltoday.com/suburban-journals/metro/education/article_39644f12-e869-5e5a-b06e-d094384e6e1d.html

Lindbergh student is Horatio Alger National Scholar

March 8, 2011

Lindbergh High School senior Drew Templeton has been selected as a 2011 Horatio Alger National Scholar.

Templeton will receive a $20,000 college scholarship to be disbursed over his college career. He also will receive an all-expenses-paid trip to attend the Horatio Alger National Scholars Conference in April in Washington, D.C.

Each year, more than 100 students nationwide receive the scholarships for exhibiting integrity, academic promise, and perseverance in overcoming personal adversity.